The Lochcarron Treehouse is a unique venue where they were assembled and externally by the community over a period of 5 days. Two interesting holiday homes have been built at Croft 103, Laid, by Carbonlite Design & Exterior, fronting the main car park, contrasts passivhaus standard which means it for Gairloch and Loch Ewe. The building is open by appointment. IV27 4UN.
The Halfway House is situated behind the ninth vast peatland landscape. KW13 6YT across the Dubh Lochan pool system and the island designed to give people spectacular views of the coastline. The tower, commissioned by the RSPB, Architects, was opened to the public in June 2015. The tower, commissioned by the RSPB, Architects, was opened to the public in June 2015.

The Castle of Mey was built between 1566 and 1572 by the 4th Earl of Caithness for his son, William Sinclair. Originally called Barrogill Castle, it was extended and renovated several times. In 1952 it was bought by Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother who later left it to her son, Prince Charles. The castle is a fine example of Arts and Crafts architecture and is open to the public.

Carnegie Hall was constructed by Andrew Carnegie, the Scots born American industrialist and philanthropist, in memory of his late mother in 1891. The hall, designed by Andrew Geddes, sits snugly by the harbour, its roof clad in copper. The hall is a Grade A listed building and a fine example of the Gothic Revival style of Caithness croft dwellings which were common in the area. It is a popular venue for concerts and cultural events.

Dunbeath Castle Estate. It is a fine example of Arts and Crafts architecture designed by the Scottish architect Joseph Miller. It was built between 1914 and 1917 and is now a popular venue for weddings and other events.

The Pier Arts Centre in Stromness, by Reiach & Hall, sits snugly by the harbour, its roof clad in copper. The centre is a Grade B listed building and houses a variety of exhibitions and events throughout the year. It is a popular venue for arts and cultural events and is open to the public.

The Cupola was added in 1703 to the Dornoch Cathedral, which was built from 1224. The cathedral is a Grade A listed building and is one of the finest examples of medieval architecture in Scotland. It is a popular venue for concerts and other events.

Transforming the appearance of John O’Groats, the town on the north-east tip of Scotland, the Maggie’s Centre at Raigmore, designed by Charles Jenks, was opened in 2013. The design is based on the shape of a haggis and provides a friendly and welcoming space for people with cancer. The centre is managed by Maggie’s Cancer Caring Centres and is open to the public.